Busy as a Bee: A Look Inside a Honey Bee Hive

By Keri Collins Lewis
MSU Extension Service

From the outside, a honey bee hive looks pretty simple: bees fly in and out. They fly around flowers, and once inside the hive, they make honey. They must be hard workers -- after all, the phrase "busy as a bee" had to come from somewhere.

Like many natural phenomena, a hive of honey bees is incredibly complex. Some scientists even classify a beehive, also called a colony, as a superorganism, an insect society made up of individuals that create a functioning whole.

Jeff Harris, a bee specialist with the Mississippi State University

A queen bee scurries toward the bottom left corner of a frame of capped cells containing bee larvae. Worker bees have many different jobs within a colony, including caring for baby bees. Worker bees forage on flowers through the spring, summer and fall to gather and store the honey and pollen the colony needs to survive the winter months. (File photo by MSU Extension/Keri Collins Lewis)

Extension Service, explained the intricacies of life as a worker honey bee.

"I don't think most people appreciate that worker bees change their jobs as they age, which is fascinating in its own right given that the typical worker bee lives a mere 5-7 weeks during the summer season," Harris said. "Their jobs are fairly distinct, as well."

Within the colony, worker bees have plenty to keep them occupied. Jobs include cleaning the nest, building comb, nursing bee larvae, heating and cooling the nest, caring for the queen, guarding against intruders, handling and storing food, and foraging for food and water.

"Changes in key hormones in the bodies of workers control the tasks and duties they perform," Harris said. "When they are young, between zero and three weeks old, these tasks focus on duties deep inside the nest. When they are three to six weeks old, workers spend most of their time outside the nest collecting food."

In terms of division of labor and based on gender, male bees -- called drones -- are living the lush life. They do no work. They do not have stingers for defense and do not collect pollen. That's right. All of the worker bees are female.

Drones exist for one purpose: to reproduce. When they are not congregating midair and waiting for a virgin queen to fly by, drones basically live off the effort of the workers in the colony. In areas with more severe winter temperatures, workers force the drones out of the hive at the end of the warm season to preserve the colony's food stores.

As for the queen, she may have the advantage of being fed, tended to and fiercely protected by workers, but she has her own job to do: laying eggs.

"The colony's survival depends on the queen," Harris said. "A queen can live for several years, and after her mating flight, she spends the rest of her life inside the hive laying eggs. The one exception is if the colony swarms, the queen will travel with the swarm to start a new home."

During her peak, a queen bee can lay up to 2,000 eggs per day. Laying eggs every day allows the colony's population to remain relatively constant through the summer. Depending on how long she lives, a queen could lay up to a million eggs during her lifetime.

"That seems like a lot, but the average colony has between 50,000 and 80,000 worker bees," he said. "Balancing the colony's food and water needs, along with the constant attention to the queen and the brood nest, requires a lot of workers."

When winter comes, the colony shifts from foraging for food to survival.

The queen stops laying eggs and the size of the colony shrinks. Short-lived summer workers die off, and winter bees take their place. These winter bees live longer than their summer counterparts and are typically born in the fall when goldenrod, aster and other pollen-rich plants are in bloom. They have more fat in their bodies to survive the winter, and then are able to transition to being nurse bees when the queen resumes laying in January.

On days when the temperature drops below about 57 degrees, honey bees do not fly. They stay inside the hive and cluster around the queen to keep her warm. But they are not hibernating. They are still busy, said Extension entomologist Blake Layton.

"The bees gather in a ball around the queen and rapidly flex their muscles to generate heat," Layton said. "As bees on the outer layers get cold, they move into the cluster and other bees move outward, so there is constant motion in the hive."

All this activity requires a lot of energy, which comes from honey.

"The bees store honey and pollen for their own use, not to provide a delicious snack for humans," Layton said. "Successful beekeepers leave enough stores for their colonies to survive the winter, when the bees rely on what they have stored in the comb."

Then spring rolls around, and the cycle begins again.

Honey – Nature's Sweetener

Honey Strawberry Tea Cooler

1 pint fresh strawberries, stemmed and cleaned
1/4 cup honey
1 6-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate
2 cups brewed green tea, cooled
1/2 cup water

In a blender or food processor container, combine water, strawberries and honey; process until smooth. Add orange juice concentrate; process until well blended. Stir into cooled tea. Serve over ice.

Honey & Ginger Marinated Flank Steak

1/4 cup soy sauce
1/3 cup honey
2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
1 1/2 teaspoons garlic powder, or 1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons fresh grated ginger
1/2 cup canola oil
2 pounds flank steak

Sweet Horseradish Sauce

1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup whipped cream
3 tablespoons prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon balsamic vinegar

Combine soy sauce, honey, vinegar, garlic powder, ginger and oil in a container with a tight lid. Shake to mix well. Make light diagonal slashes on each side of the flank steak in a diamond pattern. Place meat in a small pan and pour marinade over it. Cover and place in the refrigerator for at least four hours. Prepare the grill for cooking on medium-high heat. Cook the steak for about six to eight minutes on each side, remove from grill and let steak rest for five minutes. To prepare horseradish sauce, mix honey and mayonnaise in a small bowl until smooth, fold in whipped cream. Stir in horseradish, mustard, salt and vinegar. Mix well. Store mixture in refrigerator until ready to use. Slice steak thinly on the diagonal and serve with Sweet Horseradish Sauce.

Honey Cucumber Salad

3 medium English cucumbers, thinly sliced
1/4 cup honey
1/2 cup white balsamic vinegar (or white wine vinegar)
1/4 cup water
1/2 red onion, very thinly sliced
1 tablespoon fresh dill, chopped
Salt, to taste
Pepper, to taste

Place cucumbers in a bowl and sprinkle with salt. Toss and set aside. In a small mixing bowl, stir together honey, white balsamic vinegar, water and red onions. Pour the mixture over the cucumbers and toss. Allow the salad to marinate in the refrigerator about one hour prior to serving.

Chewy Honey Oatmeal Cookies

1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup honey
1 large egg
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 1/2 cups quick cooking rolled oats
1 cup whole wheat flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup raisins, chocolate or butterscotch chips

In a medium bowl, beat butter with sugar until thoroughly blended. Blend in honey. Blend in egg and vanilla, mixing until smooth. In separate bowl, mix together oats, flour, salt, cinnamon and baking soda; blend into honey mixture. Stir in raisins or chips. Drop dough by rounded tablespoonful's onto greased baking sheet. Bake at 350°F for 12 to 14 minutes or until cookies are golden brown. Remove from oven and allow cookies to cool two to three minutes before removing from baking sheet. Cool completely and then store in an airtight container.

Honey French Toast with Powdered Sugar & Lime

12 slices (3/4 -inch) Challah bread
1 cup whole milk
1/3 cup honey, plus additional for drizzling
3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
Nutmeg to taste
1/4 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 to 6 tablespoons butter, divided
2 limes, each sliced into 4 wedges lengthwise (8 wedges total)
Powdered sugar, for dusting

Preheat oven to 300°F. Lay bread on a cutting board or other surface to dry out slightly. To prepare the French toast batter, heat the milk with the honey over medium heat until the honey dissolves; cool slightly. With a fork, lightly whisk the eggs. Add the milk mixture, cinnamon, nutmeg and vanilla; continue mixing until uniform in color. Heat a large skillet over medium heat. Add 1/2 tablespoon of butter and melt. Quickly dip four bread slices into the egg batter, coating both sides. Add to hot skillet and cook for about three minutes on each side or until golden brown and cooked through. Place French toast on a plate and keep warm in the oven. Wipe out the skillet with a paper towel and repeat with the remaining butter and bread. Place half the French toast on six plates. Top with remaining slices and spread with 1/2 teaspoon butter on each slice. Dust with powdered sugar and squeeze one lime wedge over each plate of French toast. Drizzle with remaining honey.

The Mississippi Timber Price Report (MTPR) is a quarterly survey of stumpage timber prices in Mississippi. It is developed to provide a picture of timber market activity. The state average prices for common forest products are listed. Values given are offered as a guide to help individuals assess the fair market value of their timber. The average price should not be applied as the exact value for a particular tract. This report is updated quarterly and available at MSUCares.com/forestry, or by contacting your local county Extension office.

2017 Magnolia Beef & Poultry Expo

By Brenda Ingram
Smith County Reformer

Once again Smith County will be host to the Magnolia Beef & Poultry Expo on Thursday, April 6, 2017, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Smith County Ag Complex, located off Hwy. 35 South in Raleigh.

Seminars will be held on poultry and beef industry. Guest speakers will be glad to answer any of your questions you may have concerning your farming operation. Speakers for the day includes Tracy Tomkins from the Department of Environmental Quality. Tomkins will be speaking 9 a.m. and subject will be DEQ Permits. Speaker for the 10:30 slot is TBA. At 12 p.m., a poultry panel will speak on new innovative products and at 1:30 p. m. Cobie Rutherford, Jr. from the Department of Animal & Dairy Science at MS State University will be speaking on Changing our Perspective with the Non-Farming Community.

You must attend three of the four seminars to be eligible for the grand door prize.

The trade show will feature vendors highlighting the latest products in the poultry and cattle industry. Lending institutions will also be on hand to answer any financial questions you may have concerning loan information on these topics.

Be sure to register for door prizes that will be drawn throughout the day.

The Expo is sponsored by Community Bank in Raleigh, Solar South, LLC, First Financial and the Mississippi State University Extension Service. It is hosted locally by the following county Extension offices: Smith, Jasper, Newton, Rankin, Scott, and Simpson.

Admission is free. A concession stand will be available for lunch. Local farmers and producers are urged to attend this event for the latest information that concerns the poultry and beef industry.

If are interested in being a vendor to highlight your products at the Expo, please call the Smith County Extension Office at 601-782-4454.

MDAC Accepting Applications for the Specialty Crop Grant

By Susan Head
Grants Management &
Marketing Specialist - MDAC

Commissioner Cindy Hyde-Smith announced the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce (MDAC) is now accepting FY 2017 proposals for the Specialty Crop Block Grant Program.

The Specialty Crop Block Grant Program is funded by the United States Department of Agriculture

(USDA) and authorized by the Farm, Food, and Jobs Bill (Farm Bill). The purpose of the program is to solely enhance the competitiveness of Mississippi's specialty crop industry. Specialty crops are defined as fruits and vegetables, tree nuts, dried fruits, horticulture and nursery crops (including floriculture).

Projects funded through this program must address at least one of the following priority areas: research and development; promotion/marketing; education/extension; economics or agriculture policy. Funding will not be awarded to projects that solely benefit a particular commercial product or provide a profit to a single organization, institution or individual. Applications must be submitted to MDAC by April 27, 2017. To obtain an application, visit the Alerts and Announcements section at www.mdac.ms.gov, call (601) 359-1196, or email susan@mdac.ms.gov.

Extension Offers April 4 Cool-Season Forage Tour

By Bonnie Coblentz
MSU Extension Service

Cattle producers in the North Mississippi area are invited to the Mississippi State University campus April 4 for an evening cool-season forage tour.

The event will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. at MSU's Henry H. Leveck Research Farm, sometimes called South Farm. It is sponsored by the MSU Extension Service and the Mississippi Agricultural and Forestry Experiment Station.

Topics to be discussed include weed control practices, alfalfa establishment in bahiagrass, grazing systems using small grains or legumes, and the impact of tall fescue establishment. Participants will also receive data from the MSU forage performance trials.

This free event is open to the public, but early registration is encouraged to allow organizers to plan for the meal. Registration begins at 4:30 p.m. Participants should gather at the forage unit of the farm. Follow signs that will be posted at the intersection of Blackjack Road and Stone Boulevard on the MSU campus.

To register or for more information, contact Kathy Johnson, event coordinator, at kathy.johnson@msstate.edu or 662-325-2701.

Help Donate to Fire Victims

Cattle producers in Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, and Colorado need your help.

Due to the catastrophic wildfires that recently occurred in parts of Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas and Colorado, farmers and ranchers are desperately needing feed, hay and fencing materials for their livestock.

It has been reported that over one million acres have burned—460,000 acres in Kansas, 400,000 acres in Oklahoma, 325,000 acres in Texas and 30,000 acres in Colorado. The number of livestock lost has not been tallied, but the number will be in the thousands. Several people have lost their lives while trying to save cattle.

The Mississippi Cattlemen's Association along with the Mississippi Cattlemen's Foundation will accept monetary donations to assist in recovery efforts for producers. The money will be distributed through established relief programs for cattle producers.

You can make your tax deductible donations to the Mississippi Cattlemen's Foundation
680 Monroe Street, Suite A, Jackson, MS 39202
or by calling (601) 354-8951.

Greg Gardiner's family has been ranching in Clark County Kansas for five generations, having homesteaded in 1885. The recent wildfires in March were their ranch's worst natural disaster. Killing about 500 cattle, burning every acre of the ranch and not a blade of grass standing anywhere. Photo by Mike Pearce/The Wichita Eagle.
